Washington Nov. 10.-Developments in policy and no departure of any in the Mexican situation today tended kind. The change of ministers to emphasize a purpose on the part of the Washington government to refuse We have the right to assume that in to recognize any of the acts of the new whatever policy America adopts she Mexican congress and brought to light the fact that serious consideration was commercial foreign interests in Mexico being given by President Wilson to the as well as her own. Secretary Bryan had a long conference with Senor Calgara, charge | time such that with the freest frankd'affaires of the Mexican embassy, during whichh it is understood he said the might from time to time arise we both United States considered the election feel the fullest assurance that nothing of congressmen equally as invalid as the voting for president and vice pres-

Explained to Central American Ministers.

The secretary summoned the ministers from five Central American countries and outlined to them in general what had been done by the United States in its diplomatic parleys with the Huerta government. Later he announced that he also had been in communication with the diplomatic representatives of the European powers tion of the ex-president, sent teleand had informed them in general and had informed them in general grams to General Huerta last week to terms of the steps taken by the United this effect. States thus far.

It was reported that some of these diplomats transmitted long despatches to their home governments today describing the situation as approaching closer to a complete break in relations the presidency, nor was it a question between the United States and Mexico of whether the revolutionists were than at any time since the Mexican right or wrong; it was a question of problem became troublesome.

Huerta's Statement.

The state department made public today Huerta's statement to the diplomatic corps in Mexico City at midnight last Saturday, the burden of which wa that the presidential election would be declared null and void, but that the newly elected members would soon be installed; that the national legislature would soon resume the legislative powers which General Huerta had seen fit to assume during the interim between the arrest of the deputies for sedition and the induction of the new members of congress.

Huerta's Defense of His Course. In view of the fact that the note recited in detail Huerta's defense of his assumption of legislative powers and his arrest of the deputies, and gave also his programme for the future, it was taken by many diplomats as an obvious reply to the American suggestion that he eliminate himself from the situation. The Mexican embassy here, which received a copy of the note, declared in an official statement that "it may be assumed that the despatches received represent the attitude of President Huerta and indicate the nature of his reply to the inquiry of the government of the United States regarding his purposes in view of the recent presidential elections." Inconsistency of Huerta.

White House officials called attention to what seemed to them an faconsistency in the Huerta note wherein it assumed as valid the election of congressmen which were held simultane. ously with the voting for president and vice president to be declared by Huerta null and void.

The purpose of the United States neither to recognize Huerta's right to continue in power nor the acts of the new congress is the essence of what has been communicated to the foreign Will Not Change His Convictions to diplomais by this government.

No Negotiations With Rebels, Future steps have not been specific ally outlined. In fact, it is understood that while the policy of the government has been to keep foneign nations continually informed, there has been no direct effort to seek the support of the powers to the American programme. There is no secret, however, of the desire of the United States for the acondescence of the powers in its the committee's deliberations, declared potier. Refusal to recognize the acts of the new congress, which can grant encessions or ratify loan agreements, would be calculated) American officials say, further to weaken the resources of the Huertz government. Mr. Bryan denied that any negotiations were being conducted with the constitutionalists by the United States government.

One Fatal Accident and Many Narrow Escapes-Plate Glass Windows Blown in and Traffic Impeded.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 10-The most severe early winter storm in many years which enfolded Cleveland and the immediate vicinity from Sunday noon until today did many thousand dollars damage. Communication with the outside world by telegraph and telephone, rail or water was cut off for thirty hours. Five Foot Drifts.

Railroad trains were from twelve to eighteen hours late. Hundreds of telephone poles in the city were blown down and not only was street car traffic tied up but the entangling wires, many of them heavily charged, kept most of the pedestrians off the streets. Driven by a wind which reached a velocity of nearly 75 miles an hour Sunday night the snow fell to a depth of from five inches to five feet in the One Man Killed.

One man was killed by being blown from the top of a box car. Many street car passengers had narrow escapes when poles fell on the cars and windows were blown in by the wind. Many big plate glass windows were pushed in by the enormous pressure which the wind attained in the narrower streets.

Communication will not be entirely re-established for several days. except the downtown section of the city was in darkness all Sunday, because of the failure of most of the outlying electric plants.

Sunday evening the barometer fell to a new low record for 43 years. The snow which had fallen Sunday turned into slush, which later froze and entirely prevented street car traffic. Several days must elapse before the ice can be dug from the tracks and the broken trolley wires restored. The trains which were due in Cleveland Sunday night arrived

JURY ACQUITS BEILISS

Was Committed However-Victim of Murder Found in Cave in 1911.

Kiev, Russia, Nov. 10.—Mendel Belliss was acquitted by the jury today on the charge of murdering the boy. Andrew Yushinsky, in March, 1911. Beiless is not guilty, but the murder was committed in the Zaiteff works. This was the verdict returned shortly after six o'clock tonight by the jury after two hours' deliberation.

Beiliss Sobs Convulsively.

When Beiliss was taken out of the prisoner's room of the court for the last time and brought along the dingy corridor, it was seen that his guard had been increased to five soldiers. Two officers entered the dock with him. Beiliss was outwardly calm, The jury then filed in and the foreman advanced a few paces from the box and read the verdict.

Belliss was standing with his hands on the dock rail. He seemed to be In a state of coma, but was striving to collect his wits and comprehend what was being said. When he realized the meaning of the verdict he fell back into his seat sobbing convulsively. His counsel approached the dock and shook hands with him warmly,

An Uneasy Feeling.

All afternoon the streets of Kiev were crowded and after the verdict was pronounced the police dispersed numerous gatherings all over the city. An uneasy feeling prevails, for it is not known what capital the Black Hundred will make out of the jury's finding that the murder was committed in the Zaiteff brick works. Thus far, however, there have been no dis-

Attempts to Incite Riots.

Anti-Semitic agitators, many of whom are students, are openly incit-ing mobs to pogroms by affirming that the Jews had purchased the verdict. The governor of Kiev, however, called a meeting of representatives of Jews and promised that everything would be done to prevent outbreaks. He asked that the Jews on their part eschew jubilant demonstrations, The president of the court in his summing up observed a tone of moderation, but said that all the evidence pointed to the crime having been committed in the vicinity of the Zai-test works and not Vera Tcheberiak's flat. He also dismissed all the testimony pointing to the Tcheberiak woman and her band, and remarked how few were the witnesses who had given direct evidence against Belliss.

Beiliss Still in Prison.

The jury must consider, he said, whether the possibility of such ritual murders had been proved, and, ball, promises to be a sequel to the Naproved, Berliss must be condemned. 'wo questions were put to the jury. the first of which made no men-tion of Belliss, but simply inquired whether the crime as described was committed on the brick works premises. This was answered in the affirmative. The second question, asking whether Befliss was guilty, was answered in the negative. Counsel for the defense protested against the mention of the Zalteff works as the scene of the crime. Beiliss remained in prison tonight.

Victim's Body Found in 1911. The trial of Mendel Beiliss, a Russian of the Hebrew faith, for the alleged murder for purposes of "blood ritual" of Andrew Yushinsky, a Christian lad, began on October 8. The mutilated body of the boy was found on March 5, 1911, in a cave near Kiev. The hands were bound behind the back and there were 47 wounds on the body. Beiliss was shortly afterward arrested and charged with the murder. During the hearing many medical experts tes-tified, their opinions varying as to the reasons for the crime.
